

J54

Not to get too literary, but if Joseph Conrad and Ernest Hemingway put their potent minds together to design a traveling bar, it might look a lot like our J54 piece. Comprised of black Hunters Croc leather, adorned with polished brass hardware, reinforced by ebony stained mahogany, and lavished with black wash cork and black canvas lining, this isn't just a bar – it's an experience. Just open the bi-fold magnetized doors with two pull out ledges, complete with a wine rack and adjustable shelves, and pour away. Plus, with room for a wine fridge, there's absolutely no reason not to quench your thirst – whether you just returned from a big game safari, or the booze isle of your local supermarket.
